

NJFMC is committed to providing high standards of musical creativity and performance by supporting music education through festival adjudication evaluations and competitions. With the new omicron and delta variants of coronavirus still being a concern, safety is our main priority for all teachers and students while pushing forward with our yearly events. This year, NJFMC is offering a hybrid option for the Junior Festival Adjudications for 'Spring 2022! Students and parents have the following options available for festival adjudication evaluations:

Please refer to the following required COVID-19 NJFMC protocols for student performers opting for In-person adjudication evaluations.

Students will need to present their vaccination card upon checking in. Students will be instructed to stand at a safe distance from the judge and accompanist while performing. They will be permitted to perform their piece unmasked and then instructed to place their mask back on by the judge once completed.
2. All judges and accompanists must remain masked during all performances and in all common shared spaces.
3. Unvaccinated students who participate in vocal, woodwind, and brass events have the opportunity to participate unmasked through our virtual video submission.
